Raised with a strong traditional Cree influence, Laboucan-Massimo is an advocate for Indigenous rights and environmental justice. She made her thesis become reality when she installed solar panels in her community to provide local and sustainable electricity.